GRAF ZEPPELIN VISIT URGED

Today
Radio to Mars.
First Campaign Miracle.
Beware Half-baked Ideas.
Silly Big Fleet Idea.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.]

BRITAIN'S postoffice will attempt to reach our neighbor Mars, by radio next week. A psychic student, who believes he has had telepathic communication with a Martian lady, requests the government radio station to send his message, and it is accepted at thirty-six cents a word and will be sent into space on an 18,500 meter wave length.

IF the lady hears and answers, which she won't, that will be interesting. In any case, the government will get $1.80 for the five word message. This will be remembered when our young planet, only a few thousand million years old, establishes regular communication with neighbors in space.

BALTIMORE reports the first miracle of this campaign. Little James Joseph Burlage, seven years old, was run over by a truck, and hospital doctors marveled that he remained alive.
Before leaving home he had stuffed under his blouse a package containing 25 posters with Governor
Smith's portrait on each.

THE thick paper package acted as a shock absorber and saved the life of the little boy, who was very happy when kind doctors posted the twenty-five pictures all around the operating room. He who suggests that a much simpler miracle would have stopped the truck before it hit the boy, simply shows ignorance of miracles.

IT'S dangerous to give advanced ideas to those not ready. Russians have discovered that in China.

Chinese soldiers in possession of Chenow, decided to take Bolshevism, as they understood it, literally, gave orders to kill all that had money, destroy all deeds, mortgages and other written evidence of property ownership, and sentenced the rich to execution.

THAT was going some distance beyond Karl Marx, especially when they compelled children 12 to 15 years old, to act as executioners, in some cases compelling them to kill their own parents.

That sort of thing is apt to cause a reaction. And, it is difficult to sort out property afterward.

SECRETARY WILBUR says we should have a navy equal to that of any other country.

Not unless we have a mercantile marine equal to any other. Except to convoy and defend commercial ships, warships are out of date.

If we wanted to blockade foreign ports we might imagine a use for fighting ships. But even blockading will be done, hereafter, with airplanes and super-submarines, of long cruising range.

CONGRESSMEN, before wasting money on a big floating navy, might ask Secretary Wilbur these questions: "What did England's and Germany's great fighting ships contribute to the last war? Do you really believe that an enemy nation would send battleships to attack our coast, and meet our submarines and aircraft?"

WHAT this country needs is not a floating navy as big as that of any

FIVE MEN DIE IN HOTEL FIRE

Seven Perhaps Fatally Injured in Chicago Blaze.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Five men were burned to death and seven were perhaps fatally injured in a fire which swept a hotel near the downtown district here today.

The fire was believed to have originated when a guest lighted a cigarette in bed. The blaze swept the box-like hotel so rapidly that five men perished before firemen had arrived on the scene.

The flames blocked all exits and prevented the escape of residents.
The hotel is one classified as a "flap house" in which hoboese are able to obtain a night's lodging for 50 cents.
The four-story building, constructed of wood and brick, within a few minutes was an inferno. The shrieks above the din of the roaring flames spurred firemen in their efforts to rescue those imprisoned.

500 POTTERS IDLE AT NEW CASTLE

TIE-UP MARKS DISPUTE OVER SHENANGO SHOP KILN SHED JOB

Differences Follow Employment of Non-
Union Man.

CONFERENCE HELD "Topping" of Cars is Cause of Contro- versy.

More than 500 of the 800 potters employed by the Shenango China company, New Castle, Pa., are idle today as the result of a labor dispute between kilnmen and their employers.

Members of the executive board of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters were called here yesterday at the suggestion of James Smith, president of the company. Smith outlined his attitude in the controversy, but no steps toward a settlement of the dispute followed the conference.

The dispute, according to Brotherhood officials, followed the plant owners' employment of a non-union worker in the "topping" of the cars used in the glaze tunnel kiln which was recently installed. Brotherhood officials claim that this work of placing the top saggars on the cars before they are started through the kilns has been performed by skilled workers at the Homer Laughlin, Edwin M. Knowles and Taylor, Smith & Taylor plants, where tunnel kilns are also used.

The trouble, it is said, developed about four months ago. Since then many attempts have been made to settle the controversy. The kilnmen were called out a week ago last Saturday, while the clay shops suspended work two days later.

COOPER PLEDGES AID FOR VETS

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23.—While Congressman Martin L. Davey, Kent, Democratic gubernatorial nominee,
was speaking today at Toledo, Myers
Y. Cooper, Cincinnati, Republican candidate for governor, was making campaign speeches at Xenia and London.
Cooper also, is to speak at Chillicothe tomorrow.

Announcement that Cooper pledged himself to the program of ex-service men of Ohio was made in a statement issued today from G. O. P. state headquarters. This program included rehabilitation of the disabled, proper provision for soldiers' orphans and widows, liberalization of laws affecting the disabled and widows and orphans, opposition to removal of restrictions on immigration, education of all children in Ohio, provision for adequate and efficient national defense.

GIRL ADMITS ATTACK ON MAN

CLEVELAND, Oct. 23.—Mary Mi-shak, 16, of Cleveland, admitted to police today that she struck Thomas Georgoff, 33, farmer, of Olmsted Falls, with a stick, causing him to lose his left eye. Georgoff is in Charity hospital where physicians say he may lose the other eye as well.

According to the girl, Georgoff, a friend of her family, called at her home, apparently under the influence of liquor, she charges, and attempted to force his attentions on her. She picked up a stick and struck at him, she says. A complaint against the girl, charging her with maiming, is to be filed in juvenile court, though police said they were convinced she could establish a self-defense plea.

CROSS STREET "STOP" SIGNS UP

Because of the increased traffic which has been diverted along Dresden avenue with the opening of the Youngstown-East Liverpool road,
"stop" signs have been erected at all cross streets, it was announced today.
These streets are: East and West
Ninth, Grant, Moore, East and West Elgith and East and West Seventh streets.

Police have been detailed to watch for motorists who fail to observe the "stop" order before driving into the main thoroughfare.

Floods Sweep Southeastern France.
PARIS, Oct. 23.—Floods are causing heavy damage in southeastern France.
Many rivers are out of their banks and houses have been washed away. Rail and telegraphic communications are interrupted.

MODEST ZEP HERO

One of those who risked their lives to repair the damaged port fin of the Graf Zeppelin en route to the United States was Knut Eckener (above), son of the dirigible's commander. He was photographed as he arrived in Washington with his distinguished father.

SEES VICTORY Candidate Receives Great Reception in East.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Back in the capital after a smashing invasion of Al Smith's own New York, Herbert Hoover entered the home stretch of his presidential campaign today confident of victory in November and assured that he had delivered a telling blow in the stronghold of his adversary.

More than 20,000 people from the sidewalks of New York greeted the Republican nominee at Madison Square Garden last night in the greatest demonstration accorded him since he launched his campaign. Riotous applause which lasted for 15 minutes greeted him as he was presented by James R. Sheffield, former ambassador to Mexico. A roar and din which prevailed for eight minutes announced his entry into the huge amphitheatre.
At half a dozen points his studied or-slight on Governor Smith's policies on farm relief, prohibition and waterpower development was punctuated by ringing applause.

Dawes Assails Democrats.
Vice-President Charles G. Dawes made his first appearance at the campaign tonight, assailing the Democratic emphasis upon prohibition as an attempt to avoid the major issue of Republican prosperity and progress.

Hoover charged Smith with advocating "state socialism" in his proposals for waterpower development, agriculture and state-controlled liquor sales.
Such policies, he declared, would lead in the end to the "utter destruction"

ASKS $100,000 HEART BALM

Miss Margaret Hilgenberg Sues Claude D.
Nease.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 23.—Asking $100,000 damages, Miss Margaret E.
Hilgenberg, Los Angeles, today filed a breach of promise suit in federal court here against Claude D. Nease of East Liverpool, O. Miss Hilgenberg also formerly lived in East Liverpool, according to her petition.

Nease promised to marry her in August of 1917, Miss Hilgenberg alleges in her suit.
On Aug. 23, 1920, after promising to marry her again, she charges, Nease paid her fare to California. She alleges that Nease refused to marry her and that later he married another woman. She has at all times been willing to marry him, she says.

HALF-WAY MARK IS REACHED IN WINTER RELIEF BUDGET DRIVE

Salvation Army Teams to Attain Goal Tonight.

$7,500 SOUGHT Campaign Will Close With Dinner at Y. M. C. A.

Half-way mark was believed to have been reached at noon today in the Salvation Army's campaign for $7,500 to meet the winter relief budget for 1929.

More than 75 workers, including business and professional men and manufacturers, are making the canvass. The campaign opened at a dinner meeting in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A. last night but solicitation of funds did not begin until this morning.

Ten teams, consisting of a captain and from four to eight workers, have been organized. The teams have been divided into two divisions. Attorney S. W. Crawford being commander of one side and Attorney W.
S. Foulks, leader of the other.

The canvass will close at 6 o'clock tonight when the workers will meet for dinner at the Y. Leaders predicted the budget would be subscribed before night.

Attorney W. H. Votter, president at last night's meeting. Mrs. Joseph Hughes, wife of Field Major Hughes, in charge of the Salvation Army work here, discussed the relief, welfare and religious activities of the organization. Mrs. Hughes advocated the establishment of a day nursery here to take care of the children whose parents are employed during the day.
She also discussed the work of the Salvation Army home for wayward girls which is maintained in Cleveland.

Short talks were made by Major Hughes, Attorney Crawford and Foulks and W. A. Weaver, campaign chairman in the Salvation Army financial drives for the last three years.

Budget Outlined.
Cards were sorted following the dinner and distributed to the team captains at 9 o'clock this morning when the campaign got under way.

The relief budget of the organization for the year as outlined last night follows:

General relief, $4,117.07; automobile expense, $295.75; gas and water, $343.11; janitor's services, $212.73;
local car fares, $659; gas and coal (relief), $209.84; young people's work, $1,197.17; campaign, $200; oversight, $1,049; total, $7,668.48.

ALL IN LINE VOTE, IS RULING

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Voters who are in the polling place or in line outside at 6 o'clock election night must be permitted to cast their ballots under a formal ruling issued here today by Attorney General Albert Ottinger, Republican candidate for governor.

This ruling, it was said at the capitol, will preclude the possibility of Governor Smith calling a special session of the legislature to pass a special act to keep the polls open until midnight if necessary, so every enrolled citizen can vote.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23.—Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown this afternoon stated that he will instruct all election officials throughout Ohio that all qualified voters who may be inside election booths, or other voting places, or may be in line in front of such arrivals when the legal closing time arrives must be permitted to vote on election day.

POWER COMPANY DEFIES PROBERS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—For the second time the Electric Bond and Share company of New York defied the federal trade commission in its power propaganda investigation.

Ralph B. Feagin, a vice president, took the stand and declined to answer questions of Judge Robert E. Healy, commission counsel, concerning the propaganda expenses of the electrical organization.
"Until the fundamental question raised by us is determined judicially," Feagin said, he would remain adamant in his refusal to answer questions.
The company challenged the commission's power on the grounds it had exceeded its constitutional authority to compel the production of what Feagin described as private and confidential information.

GOODYEAR AIDE WILL ASK AIR LINER HEAD TO FLY OVER CITY

H. W. Maxson Says
Dirigible Itinerary
Not Determined.

HOPS THURSDAY Giant Ship Will Soar Over Pittsburgh at 9 a. m.

H. W. Maxson, Akron, publicity representative for the Goodyear Zeppelin corporation, left Ohio last night for Lakehurst, N. J., to urge that the German dirigible, Graf Zeppelin, fly over East Liverpool when it makes its tour of the middle west on Thursday.

Maxson, who visited East Liverpool with the Goodyear's baby blimp, Pur-titan, in August, advised representatives of the Chamber of Commerce aviation committee that notwithstanding press dispatches, the itinerary of the big ship had not been officially determined. He said that because of the interest the Ceramic City has shown in aviation, he believed the air liner would be routed over here.

Maxson promised to confer with Hugh Allen, personal representative of Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the craft.

The ship will leave Lakehurst at daybreak Thursday, reaching Pittsburgh at 9 o'clock. The tentative route to be followed, according to news dispatches is, via Steubenville, Columbus, Indianapolis and St. Louis.
Returning it will soar over Cleveland,
Akron, Buffalo, Syracuse and Albany.

Los Angeles to Hop Thursday NAVAL AIR STATION, Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 23.—Thousands of Ameri- cans may have the privilege of being witness to the unique and historic spectacle of the world's two largest airships taking off simultaneously from the landing field here Thursday morning. This became known today when Lieutenant-Commander C. H. Wiley, acting commandant of the navy dirigible Los Angeles, announced that midnight Wednesday has been set as the zero hour for the station per- sonnel's liberty.

Although the Graf Zeppelin is expected to be ready for a take-off late tonight, officers of the ship and naval officers here announced that the air liner will not start on her midwestern flight before Thursday morning. Commander Wiley, therefore, indicated the possibility of the Graf Zeppelin and the Los Angeles taking off the same morning.

The navy dirigible, however, will not accompany the German airship but will merely undertake a training flight.

Eckener Goes to Lakehurst.

Ground Broken Here For Church Building

Work Launched on $30,000 Remodeling Project; Final Meetings to be Held in Present Edifice Sunday.

WELLSVILLE, O., Oct. 23.—Ground was broken yesterday in the rear of the Second Presbyterian church, Eighteenth street, as the first step in the $30,000 reconstruction program launched by the West End congregation.

Work was started by James A. Forbes and Sons, of Wellsville, who were awarded the general contract for the remodeling. The Forbes bid was $24,500. In addition to this, there will be other expenses outside of the building itself, which, church officials expect, will boost the cost to approximately $30,000.

Excavation was launched back of the present building for a basement 36 by 100 feet. Later the present church structure will be moved back from Eighteenth street over the basement and the new additions to the church will be started.

Services will be held Sunday for the last time in the present edifice, according to announcement by the Rev. Thomas G. Berger, pastor.

After that it is planned by the congregation to conduct their Sunday meetings probably in the Garfield, or West End school building.

PENNSY PLANS AIR SERVICE

Combines Planes With Trains in Coast-to-Coast Transport.

Announcement was made today by the Pennsylvania Railroad company that orders have just been placed through its associated company, Trans-Continental Air Transport, Inc., for ten tri-motored Ford planes to be used in the combined rail and air service which the railroad and the air company will inaugurate early next spring between New York and the Pacific coast.

This initial equipment order for the coast to coast rail line was made after the most exhaustive tests of all types of planes available for the service. It represents the largest single order ever placed for Ford tri-motored airplanes. The cost of the new ships with accessories will be approximately $500,000. The Ford company expects to deliver the entire order by Feb. 1, 1929.

The choice of these planes is based upon studies which have been carried on since July 1 by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, C. S. ("Doc") Jones and other members of the air company's technical committee. Colonel Lindbergh, chairman, has reported to C. M. Keys, president of Trans-Continental Air Transport, Inc., as follows: "I recommend Ford tri-motored Wasp transports as being the type best suited for the initial order of planes for the passenger service of Trans-Continental Air Transport."

In his capacity as consulting aeronautical engineer, Colonel Lindbergh has similarly reported to the Pennsylvania Railroad company, General W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, in commenting upon the initial plane order today said: "Colonel Lindbergh and his committee have done most commendable work this summer in testing the planes available for our service. I have complete confidence in their recommendations."

MASCHKE HURLS KU KLUXISM AT MARTIN L. DAVEY

Cleveland Republican Leader Attacks
Democrat.

ASSAILS RECORD

Calls Gubernatorial Nominee "Fair-haired Boy of Klan."

CLEVELAND, Oct. 23.—Maurice Maschke, Cleveland Republican leader, today had hurled the challenge of Ku Kluxism at Congressman Martin L. Davey, of Kent, Democratic candidate for governor.

"The fair-haired boy of the Ku Klux Klan," Maschke dubbed Davey in a bitter attack on the Democratic nominee delivered before the Western Reserve Republican club here last night.

In 1920, during Davey's campaign for congress against Charles L. Knight, Akron publisher, he asserted, "one of Mr. Davey's chief lieutenants was no less a person than D. S. Stephenson, grand kleagle of the Indiana klan—now happily sojourning in prison. Stephenson went around heckling Knight during the progress of the campaign and remained in Akron to organize for Davey."

The speaker also assailed Davey's record in congress and the manner in which he has conducted his campaign for governor. In 1919, he said, Davey introduced the peace-time sedition bill, which Maschke characterized as "organized klan propaganda," and a blow at free speech.

"I find also that Mr. Davey was present less than one-half the time on more than 1,000 roll calls," Maschke declared, asserting that Davey had been of no importance in congress.

Regarding Davey's campaign for governor, the G. O. P. leader asserted that "he has come up here and had secret meetings but the public is not in one's confidence in secret meetings. Those are held to tell some people what others are not wanted to hear. Perhaps he is telling the Democrats here one thing and going elsewhere and telling them something else."

Trains Guns on Truax.
"We are not accustomed to secret meetings in the politics of Cuyahoga county. What Mr. Davey has probably been telling his fellow Democrats in secret is how liberal-minded he is and how strong for Smith. He is telling the rural Democrats that he is strictly dry and soft-pedaling on Smith."

Maschke also attacked Charles V. Truax, Democratic senatorial candidate, charging that at the Democratic national convention in 1924 Truax stood against an anti-klan resolution.

The speaker praised Myers Y. Cooper, of Cincinnati, Republican candidate for governor, declaring that Cooper is a man with "a city viewpoint and there is nothing intolerant in his makeup, while Davey is a small town man with an insular, restricted horizon."

Record Registration

Indicative of the interest in the November 6 election, when national, state, district and county officials will be elected, 9,565 voters have enrolled in East Liverpool, the only registration city in Columbiana county, according to a checkup by the election supervisors.

Not more than 8,500 names were on the registrars' books on the eve of the presidential balloting in 1924. Thus the enrollment for 1928 shows at least 1,000 more electors, including first voters and scores who heretofore failed to qualify.

East Liverpool was not alone in reporting record enrollment. Registration was so heavy in other sections that the state officials have predicted a poll of 2,500,000 or more two weeks from today, when the electors mark their ballots.

Election records indicate 6,700 as the peak figures in balloting in the Ceramic City. East Liverpool, on the basis of registration reports, should cast not less than 8,000 votes, for even this poll would permit a stay-at-home of 1,565.

Perhaps the keen interest in the presidential and state fights will serve to impress upon apathetic electors that it is their duty to go to the polls.

Bandits And Law

Gangsters kill one man and wound another on Broadway in the mid-town section of New York City in the morning and bandits shoot a detective and escape with a payroll of $7,000 in the same section in the afternoon. Bandits shoot and wound three men guarding registered mail in Buffalo and shoot down a motorcycle policeman who vainly attempts to prevent them from getting away with the mail sacks.

The chief witness for the state in a Cleveland murder trial is missing, and the authorities fear he became the victim of foul play.

Residents of a Washington street fear to ask protection following the murder of a neighbor lest their names get into print and they be made to suffer their neighbor's fate.

The ticket taker of a Chicago amusement place is ruthlessly shot down and probably fatally wounded by two gunmen before the eyes of 800 horrified and helpless spectators.

All are one day's stories of crimes.

The anti-pistol totting law, intended to prevent crime, has had the opposite effect.

The law-abiding citizen, who doesn't want to kill anybody, has been rendered helpless to defend himself while the criminal, who is indifferent to human life and scorns such laws as he scorns all other laws, goes about fully armed.

When the criminal has reason to know that any shooting started by him will probably result in converting him into a target, there will be a marked falling off in banditry, not so falling-off may be anticipated so long as the law continues to make the way easy and safe for him.

Age And Labor

A 65-year-old laborer in Michigan, coming into possession of an inheritance of $70,000, took half a day off to celebrate his good fortune with his wife and daughter, and then went back to work at his waterworks job. That will be his only celebration, he says. He intends to keep right on working. He "couldn't be happy any other way."

Many will applaud that resolution. But are they necessarily right? Sixty-three is "not very old," of course. That laborer may be good for another decade or two of daily toil. But he has worked steadily for 50 years already. Shouldn't half a century of labor for one's daily bread be enough in this age for any man or woman, or at least for anyone not compelled to labor on?

If the man in this case can't really be "happy" without the old grind, that in itself is unfortunate. It doesn't necessarily mean eagerness to serve society. It probably means that long toil has deadened his capacity for recreation, that he is no longer capable of adapting himself to new and interesting forms of activity, that his imagination is dead, that he lacks mental resources.

There are thousands of men who have got into that state, and it is a pitiful state to be in. Future generations may know better. That will make age envied instead of pitied.

Happy, Though Studious

An unbeaten football team and a round of pleasant social activities seemed to guarantee that the freshman cousin would find college life quite satisfactory. The regular hours and good food had already resulted in improved health and weight.

Rejoicing over these things, the graduate cousin, 14 years away from freshman days, hesitantly asked about teachers and studies. Were they satisfactory?

"I have fine teachers," was the prompt response. "And I like my courses. It is very different from high school, harder and with longer assignments, of course, but lots more interesting. Now I feel I am studying for myself instead of because I have to, the way we did in high school. There's some sense to the stuff."

Perhaps not all freshmen feel that way this early in their first semester in college. But undoubtedly a good many of them do, and are consequently genuinely happy in their work as well as their college fun. Doesn't it seem to indicate that the colleges are succeeding in their efforts to meet students' needs and to set the freshmen early on the right path of learning?

Sometimes, even in these days, a man will kiss a girl on his own accord, if she'll just wait long enough.

The old-fashioned girl used to get a real kick out of "marrying a man to reform him," but the modern girl finds that it saves a lot of wear and tear on the nerves to exchange him at Reno and let "the other woman" reform him.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 23.—On the sixth day of November more than thirty million Americans will cast their ballots for the electors who name the next president of the United States. This will be a mighty army, shoulder to shoulder a string of men and women ten thousand miles long. From their voting will come a plurality for some candidate, perhaps of one vote, perhaps of five million votes. Whatever it is, a nation of some hundred and twenty millions souls will accept the verdict. Partisanship will be silenced, patriotism will acclaim a new leader of a united people. What will have been decided?

One obvious sign of this campaign has been the shifting of leaders from party to party, and where a few leaders, made cautious by long political experience, are willing to shift their allegiance, it is certain that many followers have changed. Another indication, rare in modern history, has been the active participation of religious leaders in the campaign.

The causes of shifting party alignments have usually been stated by the boaters of 1928. Democrats have left their party, stating that they will not support a candidate who suggests any possible change in the prohibition amendment or the Volstead enforcement act. Some have added that they will not support a New York Republican who is aligned with the Tammany society. Republicans have left their party stating that they believe better solution for the prohibition question must be found. Others have declared that they see in the Democracy greater hope for an adjustment of the economic disadvantages of agriculture.

Scarcely a person prominent in political life has given as a reason for changing his alignment the religious faith of either of the candidates. This reticence to bring religion openly into the contest indicates both a respect for the constitutional guarantees of freedom of worship, and a regard for the historic fact that an attack upon a candidate upon religious grounds has in the past won votes for the man attacked.

Governor Smith has nevertheless probably both lost and gained votes because he is a Roman Catholic. No man of his faith has even been elected president. Mr. Hoover has probably lost and gained a lesser number of votes because he is a Quaker.

As is customary, each party has directed its efforts to three purposes—keeping enthusiasm high among those definitely determined in its cause, winning voters from the opposition, and persuading the neutral or negligent citizens to vote. Great sums have been contributed and expended for each aim. Probably the last of the three purposes outlined has had more attention than ever before. A score and more years ago, and back through our history, the privilege of the ballot was held in high esteem. Every citizen, with few exceptions, voted at all elections.

In recent years the practice has been more and more neglected. Theoretically about 60 million people are eligible to vote in the United States. If more than thirty million people vote it will be the greatest number in history.

It seems probable that our electoral system, archaic as it may be in some respects, will work out as desired in this election, and give expression to the will of the majority of those who vote. It remains a question whether that majority will be a majority of those who could and should vote.

It is too soon to pass any sort of judgment other than temporary on the candidates and the issues of the hour. It is not too soon to realize that unless our elections are a complete and free expression of the whole body of the people, our democracy is slipping backward, our Republic is in danger. The size of the vote on November sixth will perhaps be as important as its result.

Tomorrow: Election Returns.

Questions And Answers

By Frederick J. Haskin

The answers to questions printed here each day are specimens picked from the mass of inquiries handled by our great Information Bureau maintained in Washington, D. C. This valuable service is for the free use of the public. Ask any question of fact you may want to know and you will get an immediate reply. Write plainly, enclose two cents in coin or stamps for return postage, and address the East Liverpool Review Information Bureau, Frederick J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. How can I keep my pet turtles during the winter months? P. L.

A. Most turtles in their natural condition hibernate in winter, either in shallow water or bury in sand or mud. If turtles are left outdoors in winter they will hibernate if conditions permit. They should be allowed to do so and not be dug up, stirred up or otherwise disturbed until they show signs of life in the Spring. Turtles kept indoors or in a warm place will not hibernate and should be fed all winter. If kept in ponds it is best not to let the pond remain frozen through the day. Turtles live a good deal on land and some varieties can live entirely out of water but as a rule they will not thrive unless they have free access to water.

Q. How many White House brides have there been? M. P.

A. There have been five. The first was Lucy Payne Washington, who married Thomas Todd in 1811, and the last, Eleanor Wilson, who was married to William G. McAdoo in 1914.

Q. What is the Ruggles Orientator? A. H. T.

A. The Ruggles Orientator is a mechanical device operated by controls similar to an airplane, and, during the last fiscal year, adopted by the training department of the Army Air Corps as a means of estimating potential flying ability.

Q. Will you please give me some information regarding Jimima Wilkinson the so-called religious impostor, who died about 1819? A. A. D.

A. Jimima Wilkinson was born in Cumberland, R. I., in 1753. She was educated among the Society of Friends. When 20 years old she suffered severe fever, and after an apparent suspension of life, asserted that she had been raised from the dead, and professed to work miracles. She had a few followers, who with her, built in Yates county, New York, a village named Jerusalem, 1789. She enjoyed celibacy, and the religious exercises which she instituted had some resemblance to those of the Shakers. She died in 1819, and at her death the sect was broken up.

Q. Is migration from farms to the cities increasing or decreasing? E. J. C.

A. It is said to be slowing up. In 1925, 1,020,000 persons were estimated to have left the farm. In 1926, there were 834,000 and last year the number had decreased to 604,000.

Whatever it is, a nation of some hundred and twenty millions souls will accept the verdict. Partisanship will be silenced, patriotism will acclaim a new leader of a united people. What will have been decided?

One obvious sign of this campaign has been the shifting of leaders from party to party, and where a few leaders, made cautious by long political experience, are willing to shift their allegiance, it is certain that many followers have changed. Another indication, rare in modern history, has been the active participation of religious leaders in the campaign.

The causes of shifting party alignments have usually been stated by the boaters of 1928. Democrats have left their party, stating that they will not support a candidate who suggests any possible change in the prohibition amendment or the Volstead enforcement act. Some have added that they will not support a New York Republican who is aligned with the Tammany society. Republicans have left their party stating that they believe better solution for the prohibition question must be found. Others have declared that they see in the Democracy greater hope for an adjustment of the economic disadvantages of agriculture.

Scarcely a person prominent in political life has given as a reason for changing his alignment the religious faith of either of the candidates. This reticence to bring religion openly into the contest indicates both a respect for the constitutional guarantees of freedom of worship, and a regard for the historic fact that an attack upon a candidate upon religious grounds has in the past won votes for the man attacked.

Governor Smith has nevertheless probably both lost and gained votes because he is a Roman Catholic. No man of his faith has even been elected president. Mr. Hoover has probably lost and gained a lesser number of votes because he is a Quaker.

As is customary, each party has directed its efforts to three purposes—keeping enthusiasm high among those definitely determined in its cause, winning voters from the opposition, and persuading the neutral or negligent citizens to vote. Great sums have been contributed and expended for each aim. Probably the last of the three purposes outlined has had more attention than ever before. A score and more years ago, and back through our history, the privilege of the ballot was held in high esteem. Every citizen, with few exceptions, voted at all elections.

In recent years the practice has been more and more neglected. Theoretically about 60 million people are eligible to vote in the United States. If more than thirty million people vote it will be the greatest number in history.

It seems probable that our electoral system, archaic as it may be in some respects, will work out as desired in this election, and give expression to the will of the majority of those who vote. It remains a question whether that majority will be a majority of those who could and should vote.

It is too soon to pass any sort of judgment other than temporary on the candidates and the issues of the hour. It is not too soon to realize that unless our elections are a complete and free expression of the whole body of the people, our democracy is slipping backward, our Republic is in danger. The size of the vote on November sixth will perhaps be as important as its result.

The answers to questions printed here each day are specimens picked from the mass of inquiries handled by our great Information Bureau maintained in Washington, D. C. This valuable service is for the free use of the public. Ask any question of fact you may want to know and you will get an immediate reply. Q. How can I keep my pet turtles during the winter months? P. L.

A. Most turtles in their natural condition hibernate in winter, either in shallow water or bury in sand or mud. If turtles are left outdoors in winter they will hibernate if conditions permit. They should be allowed to do so and not be dug up, stirred up or otherwise disturbed until they show signs of life in the Spring. Turtles kept indoors or in a warm place will not hibernate and should be fed all winter. If kept in ponds it is best not to let the pond remain frozen through the day. Turtles live a good deal on land and some varieties can live entirely out of water but as a rule they will not thrive unless they have free access to water.

Q. How many White House brides have there been? M. P.

A. There have been five. The first was Lucy Payne Washington, who married Thomas Todd in 1811, and the last, Eleanor Wilson, who was married to William G. McAdoo in 1914.

Q. What is the Ruggles Orientator? A. H. T.

A. The Ruggles Orientator is a mechanical device operated by controls similar to an airplane, and, during the last fiscal year, adopted by the training department of the Army Air Corps as a means of estimating potential flying ability.

Q. Will you please give me some information regarding Jimima Wilkinson the so-called religious impostor, who died about 1819? A. A. D.

A. Jimima Wilkinson was born in Cumberland, R. I., in 1753. She was educated among the Society of Friends. When 20 years old she suffered severe fever, and after an apparent suspension of life, asserted that she had been raised from the dead, and professed to work miracles. She had a few followers, who with her, built in Yates county, New York, a village named Jerusalem, 1789. She enjoyed celibacy, and the religious exercises which she instituted had some resemblance to those of the Shakers. She died in 1819, and at her death the sect was broken up.

Q. Is migration from farms to the cities increasing or decreasing? E. J. C.

A. It is said to be slowing up. In 1925, 1,020,000 persons were estimated to have left the farm. In 1926, there were 834,000 and last year the number had decreased to 604,000.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Few sections of a rapidly changing city have undergone such surprising changes in the past few years as Greenwich Village. Those who have not seen it for five years would not recognize the old place, and yet it retains much of its ancient charm and has become about the pleasantest residential section in town.

The professional villagers—long-haired artists, smoked ladies and such—have almost abandoned the quarter. Only a few are left. Hundreds of roomy old houses have been provided with just enough modernism. The charm of their antiquity has not been spoiled.

Old-fashioned foot scrapers and brass door knockers have not been abandoned and the quaint village atmosphere nestling close to the pulse of the city is retained. There is also an aura of wealth without ostentation.

Artists who have drifted there in the past few years are the serious-minded, in contrast to the ash tray painters of other days, who wore flowing robes, sat in the spluttering candle light and haled of neo this and that, and gizzled gin.

The Village has become a place of 18 karat shams, filled with hokum for visiting tourists, while the rest of the town gave it a deserved chuckle. But much of this atmospheric blah has vanished. In its new dress, the Village has attained a little dignity.

Sedate and well ordered restaurants such as may be found hidden away on the Left Bank of the Seine are crowding out the coffee shops and waffle parlors where hangers-on waited for tourists, from whom to cadge a few drinks and discuss defeated hopes. Grace Godwin's garret and other soulful shacks are torn down.

Tony specialty shops have opened to brisk trade. Rents have gone up and thus confounded those who wished to pose as living in a garret on a crust. Those responsible for the renaissance of the Village have created a strong impression it is no longer the haven for loafers. And that's a fine idea.

Ben Bernie tells of a Scotchman's golden wedding party. He invited three Scotch friends. One brought a package of Old Gold Cigarettes, another a gold fish and the third brought along his friend Goldberg.

A hotel opening is the newest wrinkle for those who thrill to crashing a free party. New inns are thrown open with a flourish—jazz bands, free dancing, free food and souvenirs, free cabaret entertainment and housing speeches.

On upper Fifth Avenue is a new 23-room mansion to be occupied by a man who six years ago quit newspaper work after one week because "there was no money in it" and became a bond salesman. I don't care to see it. It might bring on one of my brooding spells.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

Coming from New England stock, I love the rocky shores and stone walls of that section of America. I am writing on a train between New York and Boston. Just now we are running through southeastern Connecticut. It is a wonder to me that these stony acres are not more thickly dotted with summer homes. They are sure to be in time.

But I'll waive the pioneer men and boys saw nothing picturesque in the scene walls, now moss covered and hoary with age. The backaches caused by building them were too fresh in mind. The gnarled hands and bent shoulders were mute evidences of labor all too difficult.

It is probable that "rupture" was very common in those old days. Of course, the hard work which began in earliest boyhood had hardened the muscles and that fact helped to guard them against this particular defect. But, nevertheless, it must have been a common trouble.

Unaccustomed, hard, manual, muscular labor is bad for people. They must break into it gradually. Just as the athlete must go into training for the contest, so must men and women accustom themselves slowly to the requirements of any hard task. In factories and warehouses, in the field and mill, in every calling in life where heavy lifting is demanded, there must be gradual training or serious effects will follow. When boys leave school to go to work, they must not jump into unfamiliar physical efforts. They and their employers must keep this fact in mind.

Speaking in the terms of geology, there is a "fault" in the abdominal wall, which causes that part to be weak and sometimes unable to resist undue strain. Heavy lifting may cause the thin tissues under the skin to give way. When that happens the gut, the intestine, may find its way through the opening. A knuckle of intestine may crowd into the opening, as a man's finger finds its way into the finger of the glove.

When such an accident occurs, there will be observed a swelling or prominence, a tumor, in the lower part of the abdomen, to one side. This we call a "hernia," or "rupture."

There is another form where the tumor is in the groin. This is merely another variety or location of the hernia.

While such an occurrence is disturbing, it does not become serious unless a section of intestine, getting into this space, becomes cut off, pinched by the constriction of the opening. In that event it may become "strangulated," choked and endangered by the pressure of the pinching tissues.

There are measures, mechanical and surgical, used to control or overcome the rupture. Your doctor will explain these to you.

It is my purpose today merely to call attention to the possibility of such an accident and to warn against it. It does not pay for a person unaccustomed to heavy lifting to indulge in it if he can escape doing so.

Sometimes lifting a heavy automobile tire into the rack behind the car may be too much for the weak tissues in this part of the body. If you are in training, taking regular exercise, or other movements tending to strengthen the abdominal wall you must be careful.

A.—Without seeing the condition it is impossible to advise you about it. Have your doctor look at your ear and he will advise whether or not you need treatment after he has diagnosed the trouble.

M. I. Q.—What would cause a dull yet severe headache over the entire head directly after the noon meal?

Mellon and Capital Beautiful.

Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, has taken a deep interest in a subject that must appeal to every American—the beautification of the national capital. Granted that the city is one of the most attractive in the land, the fact is not lost upon exponents of civic beauty that it is far from being the realization of the dreams of the original planners.

L'Enfant, Washington and Jefferson. Slow progress is being made in the most recent improvement project, for which congress appropriated about $75,000,000 for land purchase and construction of buildings, and which has been entrusted to Mr. Mellon for execution.

As principal speaker of the Founder's day program at Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh the other day, Mr. Mellon voiced his desire to make Washington the expression of the soul of America. It should be just that. At present, the city presents a startling aspect in many of the most important sections, and for sheer ugliness and lack of architectural dignity Pennsylvania avenue can scarcely be beaten by any street of equal importance in any capital anywhere. It is the street over which out great processions pass in triumph to the capitol. Yet, in the words of Mr. Mellon: "Never, in the days of either the ancient or the modern world, has anyone seen before a great triumphal way bordered throughout much of its length, by gasoline stations, lodginghouses and Chinese laundries."

Although the money for the work is at hand, the great necessary changes must come slowly. Much condemning and building must be done, with proper landscaping to present an appropriate setting. Yet it is all possible. Every American will agree with Mr. Mellon that our capital should be made a reflection of the sense of beauty so richly inherent in the people—Columbus Dispatch.

Display Your Wares.

Sometimes you think that all you need to make you a leader is money. You feel that the lack of it and a comparatively humble position bar you from the position you would like to hold.

You have brooded along this line so long that you do not make any effort to boost yourself into the place you would like.

You have talents, but you have failed to exhibit them, for you have carried the opinion that without money to back them you can't go far.

Naturally, with this attitude, your ability will never have a chance to display itself.

If you feel that you can do something better than the majority, make an effort to demonstrate the fact.

Because you have no money, there is no reason why you should be a failure.

There was never a time when great recognition was given to those who stand above the ordinary in ability in any line.

Unusual ability and talent are energetically sought and well paid for. Get out your wares and display them.

Does his mother realize?

Considerate mothers will act at once.

Constipation will blunt the keenest intellect, and many a child is classed as "dull" through bowels failing to act regularly. They need mother's watchful care.

If your child is listless, dull and out-of-sorts, it means that the stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with constipated waste. Just give a dose of "California Fig Syrup," and soon all the sour bile and irritating poison are moved from the bowels, and the child is bright and energetic again. "California Fig Syrup" cleans and regulates the bowels, and insures pure blood, clear complexion, joyous spirits, a keen brain, healthy appetite and promotes sturdy growth.

To be sure that the Fig Syrup you buy is the genuine, look for the name "California" on the package.

SATIN-SMOOTH SKIN—its lovely youthful freshness touches the heart! What a thrill grips the audience when the close-up reveals the exquisite perfection of the screen star's skin.

Knowing this, motion picture directors make flawless "studio skin" a first essential, for the screen star must constantly face the glaring close-up lights.

Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap. There are in Hollywood 433 important actresses, including all stars. 417 of these use this fragrant, white soap. All the great film studios have made it the official soap in their dressing rooms.

MARIE PREVOST is considered one of the most alluring stars in Hollywood. "To find a soap as delightful as the choice soaps you get in Paris, is a joy. Lux Toilet Soap gives my skin such satiny smoothness," says this Pathé star.

"DIVINE HEALING" SERMON TOPIC

The Rev. Jack Linn, of Oregon, Wis., spoke on "Divine Healing" last night at the revival in the First Nazarene church in Virginia avenue. He spoke in part: "I believe in divine healing, first, because God promised to heal. Again, I believe in divine healing because it is the will of God to heal. If it were not God's will to heal, we should be going to remain sick. If God works good out of sickness, we should ask Him to make us sicker instead of asking to be healed. The sicker we are the more good God works out. No one believes this in practice. Again, I believe in healing because God does it. The proof of the pudding is in the eating, and thank God, I know He has healed me and many thousands of others."

His subject tonight will be "The Great Judgment Day."

IDLE SIX MONTHS; KONJOLA PUTS MAN BACK ON THE JOB

Ten Years of Suffering With Stomach and Bowel Troubles Ended By Master Medicine.

When the outlook is dark, when hope fades, then is the time to think of Konjola, the master medicine for disorders of the stomach, liver, kidney and bowels, and neuritis, rheumatism and nervousness. Konjola brings glorious health when all else has failed. Read what Mr. A. H. McKenzie, 1102 West Madison street, Sandusky, Ohio, has to say for this modern medicine:

"Six months ago, I had to quit work, so weak and worn out was I with stomach and bowel trouble that held me in their clutches for ten years. Anything I ate caused intense pain; I had to take laxatives constantly. I could not sleep, and dizzy spells added to my misery. Things looked dark, for no medicine touched my case. I had read of the success of Konjola, but dared not hope it would help me. I tried it, however, and after taking four bottles, my terrible ailments of ten years standing have disappeared. How glorious it is to be a well man again. Oh, that I could have had this remedy ten years ago."

Konjola is sold in East Liverpool at Carnahan drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Two Ways to Avoid Sour Stomach
PAMPERING the stomach as you grow older is one way to keep out of trouble! But it's far more pleasant to eat what you choose, and let Pape's Diapepsin keep the stomach free from excess acid. Plenty of people past "three-score-and-ten" keep stomachs young because they know this one secret.

Because it is so quick, so safe and so sure in ending digestive troubles, millions recommend "Pape's Diapepsin."

"Pape's Diapepsin" is unequalled as an indigestion remedy and food corrective, yet it costs only 60 cents a package at all druggists.

If your stomach ever torments you get "Pape's Diapepsin" at once and recapture the pleasure of care-free, painless digestion. You may have felt that nothing can help your particular difficulty, but so have others to whom this remedy proved a pleasant surprise. This experiment with diapepsin may do as much for you.

BUFFALO O. K.'S "DESERT SONG"

Critic Says It's Thrilling in Theme and Action.

Speaking of "The Desert Song," the musical romance which comes to the Ceramic theater, Thursday night, The Buffalo, N. Y., Courier-Express says:

"The 'Desert Song' is done convincingly and well. It might be called superb."

"At times it is thrilling in theme, action and song. The 'Desert Song' breathes the fire of French love, the intrigue and romantic intensity of life in a Moroccan desert in Northern Africa."

"Lilting, halting songs that are stirring indeed; gorgeous settings in its North African locale and the mystery surrounding the leader of warring tribesmen make the Desert Song interesting."

E. Campbell, lot 72 in McGregor's addition, Wellsville, $3,200.

Charles T. Brooks and others to Lee B. Vincent and wife, part of an acre in section 30, Perry township, $10.

William T. Wilson and wife to I. H. Aronson, lot 2348 in Wucherer's addition, East Liverpool, $10.

Clarence Hulse and wife to Laurence E. Hulse, lot 3602 in Pleasant Heights' addition, East Liverpool, $10.

Catherine Anwaeter to Ralph E. Ferguson and others, 1.15 acres in section 36, Liverpool township, $1,850.

Ida M. Owen and others to Mary C. Lawson, lot 144 in Phelps' addition, Wellsville, $1.

tensely interesting from curtain to curtain.

"The story is set amid picturesque desert and palace scenes in a Moroccan province under French military control. The tribe of the Rifis rebukes invasion. Its leader a man of iron, is called the Red Shadow. His activities form the web for the theme through which is woven the romantic love story of Margot Bonvalet, ward of the French governor. She loves the tribal leader, the Red Shadow."

"Mar: Harrison, lovely to look upon and of good voice, in the role of Margot, scored a decided hit with her audience. Her part, calling for both dramatic and gay moods, was done cleverly."

"Joan Danton, as Azuri, native girl, in love with Capt. Paul Fontaine, played by Russell Gohring, who at the outset was to marry Margot, portrayed her role with fidelity."

"John Ehrle, son of Gen. Birabeau, in the part of Pierre Birabeau, a weakling, carried with fine characterization his role of the Red Shadow. Perhaps the fact that he is the Red Shadow should be kept a secret here in print, but it is not long a secret in the action of the story."

"Others who carried their parts well and are worthy of mention in contributing to the excellent presentation of The Desert Song are James Moore as Sid El Kar, the Red Shadow's aide; Robert Miliken as Sindar; Milton Kornbl as Hassi, Shirley Edwards as Ethel, Frederick Pearson as Ali Be Ali, cadi of a Rif tribe; Lilian Wagner as Clementina, a Spanish lady; Louise Costello as Nerli; Benjamin Lewis as Hadji, Omar Champion as Sergt. La Vergne, Albert Greenfield as Sergt. Dubassac and the chorus."

"The comedy relief was by Johnny Dale as Benjamin Kidd, society correspondent of the Paris Herald, and his co-funmaker, Ruth Nagel, as Susan, a ward of Gen. Birabeau."

Cakes

and Miss Warner's pleasant "tasting surprise"

SHORTENING for cakes should be so fresh and sweet that in baking it brings out, rather than detracts from, the delicate flavor of the cake itself.

Can you imagine making a cake with a shortening you wouldn't be willing to taste? Miss Eleanor M. Warner couldn't. So she tasted Crisco just as it came from the can—and wrote:

"The taste of Crisco was fresh, sweet. Now I do not hesitate to use Crisco in any way in which high-priced butter might be used. And often I have even better results."

Just a taste of Crisco will tell you why more good home cooks are depending upon it for better cakes, pies, biscuits and fried foods.

Five-Minute Spice Cake

$\frac{1}{2}$  cup Crisco 3 teaspoons baking powder
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cups brown sugar  $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon salt
2 eggs  $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon cinnamon
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup milk  $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon grated nutmeg
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cups flour

Put all ingredients together in a bowl and beat thoroughly until smooth. Bake in loaf pan in a moderate oven (350° F.) 50 to 60 minutes. Ice with white or caramel frosting. May also be baked in cup cakes.

Caramel Frosting

Make the frosting while the cake is baking.
2 cups brown sugar 1 tablespoon Crisco
1 cup milk or cream 1 teaspoon vanilla
Cook the sugar with the milk until it forms a soft ball when dropped in cold water. Stir in the Crisco and vanilla and a pinch of salt, and beat until thick enough to spread.

Maple Nut Cake Loaf

Will keep a long time

$\frac{1}{2}$  cup Crisco  $\frac{1}{2}$  cups flour
1 cup light brown sugar 2 teaspoons baking powder
2 eggs  $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup milk 1 cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream the Crisco with the sugar; stir in the beaten yolks. Add alternately the milk and the flour sifted with the baking powder and salt. Stir in the nuts well dredged with flour and the vanilla. Fold in the beaten whites of the eggs. Bake in a paper-lined loaf pan in a moderate oven (350° F.) about 40 minutes. Ice with caramel icing.

GOV. AL SMITH PREPARES FOR BOSTON VISIT

Democratic Nominee Opens Eastern Drive Tomorrow.

TWO-WEEK TRIP

Candidate Will Reply to Hoover Speech in New York.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Governor Al Smith was knee-deep today in preparation for the opening of his eastern campaign in Boston tomorrow night, just as his opponent, Herbert Hoover, closed his eastern campaign with his speech in New York last night.

The next two weeks will see the Democratic nominee engaged in a final slashing campaign, ranging from Boston to Baltimore, and encompassing the great centers of population that are vital to both candidates in November.

Indications were today that Governor Smith will lose no time in replying to the Hoover speech in New York last night.

Issues Clearly Drawn.
It has been Governor Smith's complaint, that Mr. Hoover declined to be drawn out on the big questions of the day, the New York governor has consistently shot shafts of sarcasm at the Republican nominee's silence concerning the issues which he raised in his western address—farm relief, prohibition and water power control.

In his speech last night, Mr. Hoover mentioned these issues specifically and by name. He charged, in effect, that if Governor Smith's ideas on these issues prevail it will amount to virtually a system of "state socialism," to use the Hoover phrase.

On the waterpower question the issue is no less clearly drawn, at Denver and at numerous other points thereafter, Governor Smith came out flatly for public ownership and public control of waterpower sites and the power generated at such sites.

Seaboard Drive Topics.
Governor Smith feels deeply on this question of waterpower development and control. He has fought some sanguine battles here in New York on this issue. He is familiar with it. And he plans an ultra vigorous reply to Mr. Hoover on this question.

The questions of prohibition, waterpower and farm relief are the high spots of what Governor Smith will deal with in his campaign up and down the Atlantic seaboard. Labor and foreign relations will be dealt with in separate speeches, but for the most part the volcanic ten days' campaign which lies ahead of the Democratic nominee will feature these aspects of the political picture which Mr. Hoover presented to his New York audience last night.

Youth Flees State Reformatory.
COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23.—Ohio police today were seeking John Dadds, 22, Bellefontaine, who is reported to have escaped from the Mansfield reformatory, early Sunday. He was serving one to five years for receiving stolen property, according to prison records. He began his term January 9, 1928.

Urge Zep Visit Here

national anthem bade "auf wiedersehen" to the German air hero at the Union station here last night.

Last night's banquet was the climax of a day dedicated to acclaiming the heroism of the visitors and to good will between the United States and Germany. Unting to sponsor it were the city, county commissioners, Council of German Societies and the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Pays Tribute to America.
Dr. Hugo Simon, German consul general, praised Lady Drummond Hay and paid tribute to America's sportsmanship and business ability.

Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the United States navy bureau of aeronautics, described the navy's plans for two giant Zeppelins, each capable of carrying 100 passengers.

And last Dr. Eckener, leaning against a table, head to one side, attempted to find in a strange tongue the sentiments that tugged at his heart. He waved aside the "hochs" to tell of the emotion that swayed him at Chicago's great welcome.

In a touching final tableau, the band played "Deutschland über Alles," the audience singing the words and Dr. Eckener departing bade "auf wiedersehen" to Chicago.

HARPIST IN CONCERT TONIGHT

Miss Lotta Moyer, New York, harpist, will be one of the assisting artists in the concert which will be presented at the high school auditorium at 8:15 o'clock tonight for the benefit of the police relief and pension fund. Miss Moyer has spent several years on the concert stage.

other nation, but air fleet and submarine fleets much greater than those of any other nation.

Get these and you may stop worrying about war.

THE British put out great steel nets in the channel to protect their transports from submarines. But no country would undertake to control our submarines with steel nets in the Atlantic along 6,000 miles of our shores.

JOHN HOPKINS, in 125 families, rich and poor, will investigate origins, causes and frequency of colds.

WHAT is foolishly described as "only a cold," is the most harmful of diseases, causing a loss of hundreds of millions a year in wages. And what is worse, it weakens the system, exposing it to attack from diseases that destroy life—pneumonia, diphtheria, heart disease and a dozen others.

NEVER neglect a cold, for each one actually shortens your life. And remember the great Dr. Osler's statement that the best thing for a cold is "two days in bed."

CHINA asks the right to try foreigners that offend against her citizens or laws, instead of letting them be tried in courts set up by their own nationality. That is reasonable.

BUT China's request should be granted, only on the assumption that penalties on conviction would be reasonable from the western point of view. The old Dowager Empress condemned offenders to be sawed in two lengthwise.

That would be too severe for any European constitution.

MRS. WILLEBRANDT ON FINAL DRIVE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, leaves tonight on a final campaign tour in behalf of Herbert Hoover.

She will traverse the south, middle west and the Pacific coast. All her speeches will be before Republican rallies.

He leaves his widow and one son, his mother, two brothers, Howard and Foster, and three sisters, Mrs. Lawrence Lowrey, Retts and Elizabeth.

DEMS' RALLY ON WEDNESDAY

Two Speakers on Municipal Courtroom Program.

George S. Meyers, Cleveland, Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor, and Michael Cain, New York, member of the Democratic national speaker's bureau, will be the speakers at a Democratic rally which will be held in municipal court room at 8 o'clock tomorrow night.

Mayor Ralph C. Benedum, chairman of the Columbiana County Democratic executive committee, will introduce the speakers. Meyers is expected to discuss state issues, while Cain will appeal for support of the party's national ticket.

The two campaigners are scheduled to appear at East Palestine tonight.

TWO MEN KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

AKRON, O., Oct. 23.—Two deaths have resulted from an automobile accident early yesterday when a car driven by Theodore McDaniels, 32, of Wadsworth, crashed into a bridge on the Manchester road near here and burned. It was learned today.

McDaniels was brought to a hospital here and died this morning.

Last night Mrs. Frank Johnson, of Barberton, after reading of the accident in a newspaper, telephoned the sheriff's office that her husband had been with McDaniels.

Deputy Sheriff Clark Hixson returned to the scene of the crash and found the body of Johnson, who was 29, lying some distance off the road. The two men left Barberton Sunday night to seek employment in Youngstown, according to Mrs. Johnson.

Another traffic fatality was recorded last night when Patrick Grande, 16, was struck by a bus while walking across a street here and instantly killed.

CLOSE MISSION SCHOOL TOMORROW

Final meeting of the school of mission, which has been in progress at the First Presbyterian church for five weeks, will be held at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night.

Between 400 and 500 men, women and children are enrolled in this, the third largest school in the Ohio Synod. The average attendance at the weekly meeting of the classes is 237. Text book "The New Africa" is being used.

Six classes have been organized. The men's class is taught by T. T. Jones, while O. C. Delaney is in charge of the women's class. Mrs. J. H. Lawther, wife of the pastor, conducted the young people's class, Miss Lida Farrar, the class for children from 8 to 12 years, and Mrs. Sterling Carson, the class for younger children from six to eight years. The other class is the home department.

An attendance of more than 300 persons is expected at tomorrow night's meeting.

Hoover Sees Victory

of self government and the American political and social system."

The great issue of the campaign, he told his audience, was a "question of fundamental principle—Shall we depart from the principles of our American political and economic system, upon which we have advanced beyond the rest of the world, in order to adopt methods based on principles destructive of its very foundation?"

Six Lesser Speeches.

Hoover's tumultuous day in New York included six lesser speeches. He interviewed hundreds of party leaders and workers from all sections of the Empire state and received half a dozen delegations of supporters. In this round of events, he revived memories of his service in feeding 10,000,000 European children after the war, pleaded for the election of a Republican congress, spurred his national organization to greater efforts with a warning that the only danger ahead lay in overconfidence, and lauded the work of World war veterans in getting out the vote.

The high spot of his visit was his attack on Governor Smith's policies before his night meeting at Madison Square garden. After alluding to New York's favorite son as "my distinguished opponent," which brought thunderous applause from the throng, he dealt with the issues impersonally, or as the policies "of the Democratic party."

Lauds Jackson and Wilson.
Twice during his prepared address he paid tribute to the political philosophies of Democrats—to Andrew Jackson and Woodrow Wilson. Again he called out roars of applause with cordial references to Theodore Roosevelt and Calvin Coolidge.

As he was sped back to his hotel after the rally, tens of thousands saluted him with cheers and shouts along the milling thoroughfares of the Rialto and down the world's one Fifth Avenue.

Governor Smith's plan for federal commissions to deal with administrative problems such as waterpower and the navy, was characterized by the Republican nominee as subversive "to the very basis of liberty and freedom."

"They would destroy initiative, wipe out competition, destroy free industry, free commerce and free speech," he said.

"There has been revived in this campaign, a series of proposals which, if adopted, would be a long step toward the abandonment of our American system and a surrender to the destructive operation of governmental conduct of commercial business."

Hits "State Socialism."

"Because the country is faced with difficulties and doubt over certain national problems—that is, prohibition, farm relief and electrical power—our opponents propose that we must trust government a long way into the business which gave rise to these problems. In effect they abandon the tenets of their own party and turn to state socialism as a solution for the difficulties presented by all three."

"It took congress six years of constant discussion to decide even what the method of administration of Muscle Shoals should be."

"You cannot extend the mastery of government over the daily working lives of a people without at the same time making it the masters of the people's souls and thoughts."

A high moment of feeling in this crowded day came for Hoover when Daniel Frohman, veteran producer, alluded to him, during a reception of famous theatrical celebrities, at the Waldorf, as "an American intellectual liberal."

"I would credit it the greatest honor I could receive," Hoover replied, "to have been known as an American intellectual liberal."

WITT PREDICTS RECORD VOTE

Cleveland Politician Speaks at Rotary Luncheon.

Prediction that a record-breaking vote will be cast in the November 6 general election because of the many campaign issues at stake was made by Peter Witt, former Cleveland traffic commissioner and runner-up in the race for the Democratic nomination for governor at the August primaries, in an address before 50 members of the Rotary club and their guests at a luncheon in the Y. M. C. A. today.

Witt advocated a change in the election laws so that elections might be called when issues develop instead of at stated intervals.

"In England 85 percent of the people exercise their right to the ballot because elections are held at times when there are issues," Witt declared. "Here in the United States but 50 percent vote because no questions are involved which attract sufficient attention."

In the absence of Anthony Koehler, Albert Froesch presided and introduced the speaker, Signor Antonio Papania, New York, who will appear in a recital to be given at the high school auditorium tonight, gave two vocal numbers.

Mayor Ralph C. Benedum and Ser Vice-Safety Director Moore were guests.

Witt is scheduled to speak at a Democratic rally in Salem tonight.

As a result, the schedule has been put ahead at least 24 hours and the huge air liner will not start for Germany until next Tuesday morning.

The work of loading the ship with 4,000 cubic metres of hydrogen gas was to begin today.

Program of Music and Short Talks to Follow "Feed" at Potters' Hall; Attorney Blaine Cochran Toastmaster.

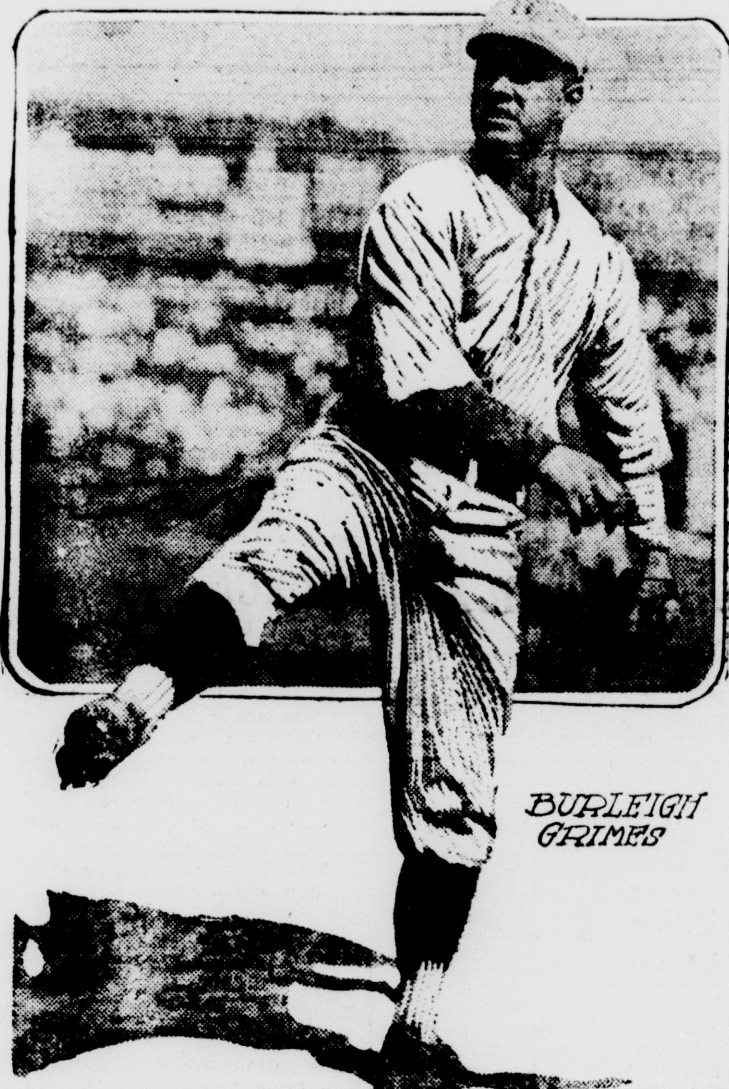

Arrangements were nearing completion today for the annual banquet of the City Industrial Baseball league and its followers tomorrow night at 6:30 o'clock in the Potters' hall in West Sixth street.

Howard Shanks, who makes his home in Monaca, expressed great pleasure at the opportunity to renew old acquaintances with East Liverpool friends when apprised of the get-together.

"I have a very warm spot in my heart for East Liverpool and all the folks there," said Shanks, "and there's no place I'd rather meet with the stovers and talk things over than in East Liverpool."

Bucs Pitching Ace to be Guest At Baseball Dinner Tomorrow

Pitt-Tech To Battle Saturday

Panthers are Underdogs in Pre-Game Dope.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 23.—Pitt's fighting football eleven which has tasted defeat once in training for the hardest game of the season, Saturday, in the Pitt stadium they stack up against the greatest Carnegie Tech team in the history of the Tartan school for the city football championship.

Pitt-Carnegie tussles, which send not only 22 inspired gridironers into battle, but also stir up some 20,000 rival students to the keenest rivalry of the season, date back to 1906. Since the first battle, Pitt has won 11 out of 14 games, Carnegie taking the other three contests. Last year, Pitt humbled the Tartans, 23 to 7, but the year preceding Carnegie came through with a 14 to 0 victory.

Carnegie invades the stadium Saturday with a brilliant array of grid-ers. Coach Wally Steffen has one of the strongest scoring backfields in the country. Captain Harpster, Moorehead, Eyth, and Letzelter have ripped the Westminster, Thiel and Ashland lines to shreds. In Williams, Parkinson, Canisa, Rooney and Edwards, Pitt has a powerful backfield that has run wild against Thiel and Bethany. The impending clash promises a sensational, free scoring battle.

All eyes will be riveted on the rival fullbacks. Tom (Pug) Parkinson of the Panthers will square off with Five Yards Karsis, the hardest hitting full-back ever to play for Carnegie. Plunging Pug Parkinson tore through the West Virginia line for nearly 100 yards, while Karsis has not been stopped this season.

Another duel is pending between the two warriors from Mars, Eyth and Williams. Josh Williams has filled the shoes of the All-American Welch for the Panthers, while Eyth, up from the freshman team, is the trickiest open field runner on the Carnegie team. With these two boys in the lineup, open field running will be the treat of the day, with wide formations featuring the play of both teams.

Every Pitt-Tech game is a higher fight from start to the ending whistle, but the battle this year takes on an added flavor because of Carnegie Tech's powerful eleven. All odds favor the Tartans, Saturday, but the Panthers have a fighting aggregation. For the first time in three years Coach Sutherland's men go into the fray as underdogs. Eleven scrappy Panthers face the Scotchmen, knowing they meet the best Carnegie team in years, and with only a fighting chance to win.

Coach Steffen has perfected his famous end-around plays and spinner formations in the hope of humbling the fighting Panthers. Coach Sutherland is pushing his boys to the limit to cope with Steffen's wonderful outfit.

Belmont Defeats Kendlar

Alliance Pug Under Cover Most of Route.

STRIVING diligently for eight rounds to make a real swardest out of it but blocked and tied and warded off by a peculiar style that only Al Kendlar knows, Jimmy Belmont, Pittsburgh welter, one of the cleanest cut lads to appear in a local ring, a great puncher and a good boxer, took a hard earned decision over the Alliance pug in the eight-round headliner in the lodge arena last night.

That Kendlar defended himself well goes without saying, too well, in fact, to make the kind of a fight out of it that the ringside habitués demand.

Belmont led constantly, did almost all the leading with the exception of a few occasions when Kendlar came out of his shell or was rocked out of it by one of Belmont's hard-swinging lefts.

For the first two or three rounds Belmont studied the Alliance fighter from all angles. He tried to get inside but found it difficult. Anybody would. And there was little use hammering the exposed sections of the Alliance pug because he's evidently hard as nails and could fight the style he was using all night or all week. The only chance for a knockout that Belmont had was that one of his lefts, perchance, might find its way through the guarding cordon of shoulders, elbows and gloves to Kendlar's chin.

In this method of attack, for Belmont virtually had to start it all the time, the Pittsburgher worked for eight rounds and although he rocked Kendlar on several occasions he was unable to ferret his way to the button.

Belmont carried the second, the fourth and the sixth rounds when he managed to pull Kendlar out of his crouch and was given fleeting opportunities to use the power of his punches.

Freddy Boylestein, New Kensington, knew too many tricks for Johnny Vio, Pittsburgh welter, and took the decision in the six-round semi-final.

The bout reached a climax in the sixth when Vio doubled over, claiming a foul. Dr. Campbell examined the fighter and, observing no untoward indication of punishment, the fight was resumed. And the pair finished the one minute that was left to go in a flurry of gloves.

Boylestein used a right uppercut effectively in the clinches and, perhaps, an elbow or two.

Nick Caruso, Midland, was winner on a technical knockout over Young Burns of the East End, when the bout was stopped by Referee McDonough in the second.

"Young Gunboat" Smith, city, won from Walter Boyd, city, in the third round of their scheduled four by the same method. Boyd's towel came in after a couple of minutes in the third frame.

In fact, the towel was used frequently in last night's scraps. Mickey Bumbico, local shoeshiner, making his debut in the prize ring, lost on a technical K. O. to "Red" Williams, flashy little Northsider, in the second of a scheduled three-rounder.

Fight Results

AT PHILADELPHIA—Joe Dundee, of Baltimore, lightweight champion of the world, won decision over Walcott Langford, Chicago Negro, 10 rounds. Dundee's title was not at stake.

Hilario Martinez, European welterweight champion, won from Tommy Murphy, Trenton, N. J., on foul, 7 rounds.

AT BOSTON—Jim Maloney, of Boston, won decision over Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight, 10 rounds.

AT PITTSBURGH—Maxie Rosenbloom, New York, outpointed Garfield Johnson of Pittsburgh.

AT NEW YORK—Baby Joe Gans, Pacific coast welterweight, won decision over Nick Palmer, of Brooklyn, 10 rounds.

AT MONTREAL—George Siders, of Montreal, won Canadian welterweight championship by defeating George Field, of Toronto, on foul, 7.

AT BUFFALO, N. Y.—Larry Gains, Toronto heavyweight, outpointed Pat McCarthy, of Boston, 10.

SEBRING AWAITS ALLIANCE FOES

SEBRING, O., Oct. 23.—Two old rivals are to meet again when Alliance High school football team plays Sebring High at Sebring this Thursday at 3:30 p. m.

Although Alliance won the last contest between these schools, played in 1925, 78-0, the game is of that kind termed by critics as a "Natural." Sebring, a class B school, has had a fine record in her class during the last two years with 14 wins and a tie in fifteen games, and this year rolled up 166 points to opponents' 7 in five straight wins. Alliance, on the other hand, while playing stiffer opposition, has had several reverses, but will greatly outweigh her opponents this year. Football enthusiasm in the neighboring towns is at fever height and the game promises to be a great battle.

Sebring's team has been guided to this fine record so far by Thomas Vernia, a former Muskingum end. Alliance is coached by George Wilcoxon, a former star athlete at Mt. Union.

The game has been changed to Thursday from Saturday because of the Eastern Ohio Teachers' convention at Cleveland on the latter day.

Germany has now a 40 per cent profit tax on all sales of real estate.

"Beat Bellaire!" is War Cry In Potters' Camp This Week

Locals Reach Mid-way Point in Strenuous Schedule With Red and Black Here Saturday.

HAVING started five times to date since the momentous Sept. 22 when the Blue and White was held enough to reach out and tweak the nose of Canton McKinney, and having been "thrown for a loss" but once, East Liverpool high griders Saturday reach the mid-way point in the stiffest gridiron outlay ever tackled by wearers of the Blue.

There is an old superstition that a bad beginning oftentimes makes a good ending. Canton McKinney, it is recalled, obligingly furnished the first part. Since then the Blue and White has done the rest, bowling over Cleveland Holy Name, New Philadelphia, East Palestine and Toronto. And now, then.

LET'S BEAT BELLAIRE! And then, just to be consistent with the thing, go on down the list—Salem, Martins Ferry, Chester, Youngstown East and Wellsville.

Course, that's a lot easier said than done, especially when you've got a lot of tough hoppers waiting to rattle your bones like some of these birds the Potters have got to scuffle with yet.

If the boys can come through with wins over the rest of these outfits, or even a majority of them, why, they're the berries, that's all!

Course, that's a lot easier said than done, especially when you've got a lot of tough hoppers waiting to rattle your bones like some of these birds the Potters have got to scuffle with yet.

Oh, nothing," was the condescending reply. "Just knocked 'em out!" Seeing anybody knocked "knock" is a very annoying incident, evidently, in the eyes of a blase water boy. It oughtn't to be allowed.

And then Toronto sprang that triple pass thing on the next play. Woolley thrust a couple of paws out and two Toronto linemen's noses went roaming among the vagrant blades of grass; he splashed that interference into a handful of rain drops and slapped down the ball carrier without taking a second breath.

Beat Bellaire. Toronto observers were somewhat surprised, or at least they said so, at the percentage of passes East Liverpool completed. The Potters' showing in this department, in comparison to Toronto's, was, at that, much superior.

Beat Bellaire. "What a break this is for us!" breathed Chancey and his "gang," the gang consisting of two companions in early teens as they gazed with rapture on the unboarded expanse of gridiron at Toronto Saturday.

Sure was some break, at that! Chancey and his "gang," with exacting no dollar (nor any fraction thereof) of their respective pockets, started via toe and heel. At the "Narrow" below Yellow Creek they met five "tough guys."

"Wanta fight?" asked the "tough guys."

Chancey and his mates called a council of war. They were outnumbered, to be sure, but then—well, "as west end guys ain't yellow," so Chancey says, after mature deliberation, "well, we don't care." But just about then Claire Coleman and Saul McCoy came along and the war ended. The kids piled in and went to see 22 other guys fight.

Young McCoy injured an ankle, the first he's got this season, but will probably come along all right this week. Coach Hurst says he's never seen so many bum ankles in one place in all his life.

The performance of young Fred Althar at center has been one of the most noteworthy features of the Blue and White's playing this season. The youngster is not showy in his actions but he's effective on his job. Seems as though the locals have good centers for several years past, one of whom was Dick Larkins, now on the Ohio State eleven.

Yale-Army Top Week Grid Bill

Contest Marks Turning Point for Both Teams.

By Les Conklin.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The scheduled makers who carded the Yale-Army game for October 27 should be continued in the cell occupied by the play-wright who insisted upon inserting his big fight scene in the second act, for here is an attraction, ranking as it does as the high light of the eastern football program for 1928, that would have been unsurpassed as the season's climax. Matching these two eastern bellwethers at the half-way mark is like pitting Walter Haren against Johnny Farrell in the second round.

The contest will mark the turn of the road for both teams. The loser will be automatically eliminated from the race for the mythical eastern title, the winner will be able to face other tough opponents with renewed confidence.

And win or lose, a rocky road stretches ahead for both elevens. Dartmouth, Princeton and Harvard are additional obstacles in Yale's path, and Army's subsequent opponents include Notre Dame, Nebraska and Stanford. Yale, no doubt, would rather lose to Army than to Harvard or Princeton. But Army, seeking revenge for its 10 to 6 defeat by Yale last year, considers a victory over the Elis as a main objective.

This titanic scrap will be the only contest next Saturday in which two unbeaten or untied eastern leaders will clash. Princeton, which proved that its tie with Virginia was all a mistake by slaughtering Lehigh last week, will get a chance to prove the sincerity of its reformation when Cornell invades the lair of the tiger.

Colgate, which lost to Vanderbilt but is still undefeated in eastern competition, will test the strength of New York university. Syracuse, also still in the running for eastern honors, should defeat the much-battered Penn State outfit.

Other contests scheduled for this week will make Saturday's card the best yet offered this season. Dartmouth will turn Al Marsters and Co. loose against Harvard. Penn will take on the apparently rejuvenated Navy eleven and Carnegie Tech will do or die against Pittsburgh, its traditional rival.

Georgetown, the high scoring outfit of the country, will find in Duke somewhat tougher meat than the minor leaguers who have yielded 205 points to the Hilltoppers in four games.

Other notable contests in the east will be the Lafayette-West Virginia, Fordham-Washington and Jefferson and Marquette-Holy Cross games.

Indiana Next for Buckeyes

Larkins is Injured in Michigan Scrap.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23.—With the championship crown of the Big Ten conference looming gridiron warriors of Ohio State university began intensive training today in preparation for their third conference tilt of the season at Indiana next Saturday.

All members of the varsity squad were in uniform at the first practice of the week last night and were reported in good physical condition with the exception of bruises sustained in the battle with the Michigan Wolverines, Saturday. Richard Larkins, of East Liverpool, a tackle, was the most seriously hurt in the Wolverine clash. He sustained a deep gash over his left eye.

Although last night's workout was comparatively light the training for the remainder of the week will involve scrimmages and other forms of heavy practice. Coach Wilce reported today. The practice this week will not be in secret as last week when the Bucks were preparing for the Michigan encounter but will be open to newspapermen who will work without censorship.

Just what Coach Wilce will do with his lineup this week and who will be the members of the team when it clashes with the Hoosiers at Bloomington Saturday is difficult to predict. The ballcoach of the injured Kruskamp, fullback, appears to have quieted down somewhat however following his colorless showing when sent into the fray as relief Saturday. Fullback Cory who worked in that position during a greater part of the game gave an indication that he was the man for the job, in spite of Kruskamp's much-heralded ability.

Ohio's line for the Hoosier contest will be strengthened by the presence of Uhlhoff at guard. "Joe" did not recover from injuries sustained in Northwestern game in time to take part in the Michigan fray but unless injury again takes him to the bench, he will appear with the Buckeye varsity for the remainder of the season. Fully recovered from his ankle injury, Kriss, halfback, is also expected to add not a little offensive force to the team.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Eight jobs on the Cornell eleven are still open. Of the teams that will face Princeton Saturday, only the center and ends have been definitely chosen.

Billiards

Webster noosed out Reel, 35 to 31, in a hot finish in their three-cushion match last night at the Club Billiards. Both players shot in good form.

Crawford and Bennett play tonight.

DUNDEE DEFEATS CHICAGO NEGRO

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23.—Joe Dundee, welterweight king, today had confounded the experts who would relegate him to the limbo of "cheese champions." The Baltimorean won the decision over Walcott Langford, Chicago negro, in a ten-round bout here night. His title was not at stake.

Dundee was unusually aggressive and gave Langford quite a drubbing. The bout served as an excellent warm-up for Dundee, who meets a tough opponent in New York next month when he takes on Young Jack Thompson, coast welterweight.

It Never Pays

Romance in New York

By GILBERT ROGERS

Sally's eyes were wild. "But why—why are you doing this terrible thing? For God's sake—" Her head ached, and she fought to keep from fainting.

And now Shevlin smiled gently and deliberately. "Dear Sally," he murmured, "I didn't say that this couldn't be stopped. It can be stopped in just one way."

"How?" she gasped. "Don't torture me like this!"

"If Adrian Martin were to send a code message to his agent cancelling the first order, why, apart from a few snakes, crocodiles, and nomadic Indians, your friend Mr. Evesham would be in no danger."

"If Adrian Martin—"

"Exactly. And Adrian Martin will send that message, if I tell him!"

"Oh," said Sally dully, "I see, I see..."

"I thought you would, Sally. I was sure you would!"

"You going to make Adrian Martin send that message?" said Sally quietly.

"I hope so."

She looked at him with a slow, fearful glance, thinking that he was like a monster, like nothing human.

"You have great influence with me," he said softly. "I think you might be able to make me do anything you wanted—even this."

A little cry burst from her, though she was struggling desperately for self-control.

"You see," he murmured, "I decided that you would be willing to make a greater sacrifice for someone you like, than for yourself." I tried the latter, and failed—you remember how. This time I don't expect to fail. You know where my apartment is—do you want to dine with me there tonight? Tomorrow morning we'll go to Adrian Martin together and have him send that wire. What do you say?"

"You utter beast—you beast!" she cried out.

He shook his head. "Well, think it over. You've got just three days. After that it will be too late. The party will have started from the seaport, and not Adrian Martin can stop the thing then."

"Oh, get out of here—get out of here!" Sally cried. "Do you hear—get out of here!" She stood choking inarticulate, on the verge of hysteria.

"Au revoir!" said Dan Shevlin.

CHAPTER 45.

For a moment Sally stood quite motionless. There was a confused singing and murmuring in her ears, as of the sea were drumming not far away.

But the sea was not here, he was in Carlotta Brooke's apartment and she was only feeling faint and sick. Sick she must be sick.

Slowly, in a tide, came realization. Dan Shevlin's sardonic face seemed to rise before her eyes, his words echoed again in her ears.

Jerry would be killed in far away South America, struck down in the jungle, shot in the back most likely, by the bandits who were in Adrian Martin's pay. And only she could save him—at the price of everything!

She had always feared Dan Shevlin, but she had never rested. He had forced Adrian Martin as if with a whip. With uncanny shrewdness he had realized this was the one and only road to his desires.

Sally was dry-eyed now, but she was trembling. She looked up. Carlotta had stolen back into the room, was looking at her anxiously, wondering. Then Sally's self-control snapped. A sob rose in her throat, then another and another, and she was shaking hysterically in Carlotta's arms. She did not know what she said, but she must have told enough for Carlotta to guess the rest.

The older woman was very quiet. Her fingers touched Sally's hair tenderly.

"Don't—don't dear. It will be all right. I promise you it will be all right."

At the surety of those tones, Sally tried to check her self.

"But—but what can I do?"

"I'm going to help you. You don't think I'm not going to do everything?"

"Carlotta..."

Carlotta's face had a certain grimness. Into her expression that often mingled petulance with complacency there seemed to come now something that was strong and determined. Her eyes looked into space. Then she said:

"I don't care what hold Dan Shevlin has on Adrian Martin. I don't care what it is. I'm going to see Adrian Martin—Oh, I won't hesitate to do anything—anything!"

Sally tried to pour out so—thing of the gratitude that surged through her, aching her like a physical thing. She had so often taken the initiative, but now she was leaning for help on Carlotta, and Carlotta was not failing her.

"Long Distance to Newport. Put it through quickly please."

"You mean over the phone?" Sally began. "You're going to ask him—"

"I only want to let him know we're on our way. We haven't much time to lose. I don't want to miss him."

Fifteen minutes—crawling slowly, while Sally sat, thinking, and trying not to think, deadly afraid. . . .

Then the tinkle of the phone, and Carlotta was there. "What, he's not there? . . . When will Mr. Martin be there? . . . Well, I must get in touch with him at once. This is an old friend, a personal friend, do you understand? And it's terribly important. Where can I find him? . . . You don't know? That's ridiculous! Ridiculous! I tell you this is an old friend. . . ."

Sally's fingers gripped the arms of her chair, and like a wave, despair came slowly over her. She did not need to hear Carlotta's fierce insistence, her pleading. She knew by instinct that Adrian Martin's whereabouts would not be revealed.

But when Carlotta angrily dropped the receiver into place and rose to her feet, she looked baffled but not beaten.

"I've got to thing. . . . If we should go to Newport, try to force them to tell us? . . . But, no, they may not really know where he is. He may have left no word. Best as Shevlin would probably see to that. He never misses a point."

It was as if she talked to herself, and sought for an answer. Presently she made up her mind.

"We've got to find Martin—we've got to! Well, there's only one way—I'll go to Dan Shevlin. I'll find out somehow."

"But he—he won't tell you!" Sally exclaimed.

"No, but perhaps I can find out. I don't know. I'll try everything. I may find some way. I'm going to do this, Sally. Don't be afraid. I'm going now. Better lie down—rest if you can."

"Oh, I can't, I can't! It's wonderful of you to help me like this, but come back soon! I can't stand being alone tonight, Carlotta—I'm all to pieces, I really am. . . . Jerry down there—and—"

"You must stop thinking, worrying—do you hear?" Carlotta spoke with a voice of command, but put her cool, soft fingers on Sally's brow, hurried away to bring her bromides, came back to scold her, to soothe her. And then she was gone.

But as if in an agony, Sally sat without moving. Carlotta had brought her books, magazines. But they lay in a little pile, unopened. She was waiting, waiting. How could Carlotta possibly hope to find Adrian Martin's whereabouts? Why, that would be the last thing Shevlin would be willing to reveal! He would realize that if they could reach Martin, they might somehow force him to go back on his word. There was no hope, none at all.

Nevertheless, every nerve in her body seemed to jump with a kind of terrible anxiety when, hours later, she heard the click of the door, and Carlotta's footsteps coming down the hall.

She thought to herself. "It's now—it's coming now. Oh, I know what it must be like to be accused of murder and see the jury filing back to announce their verdict."

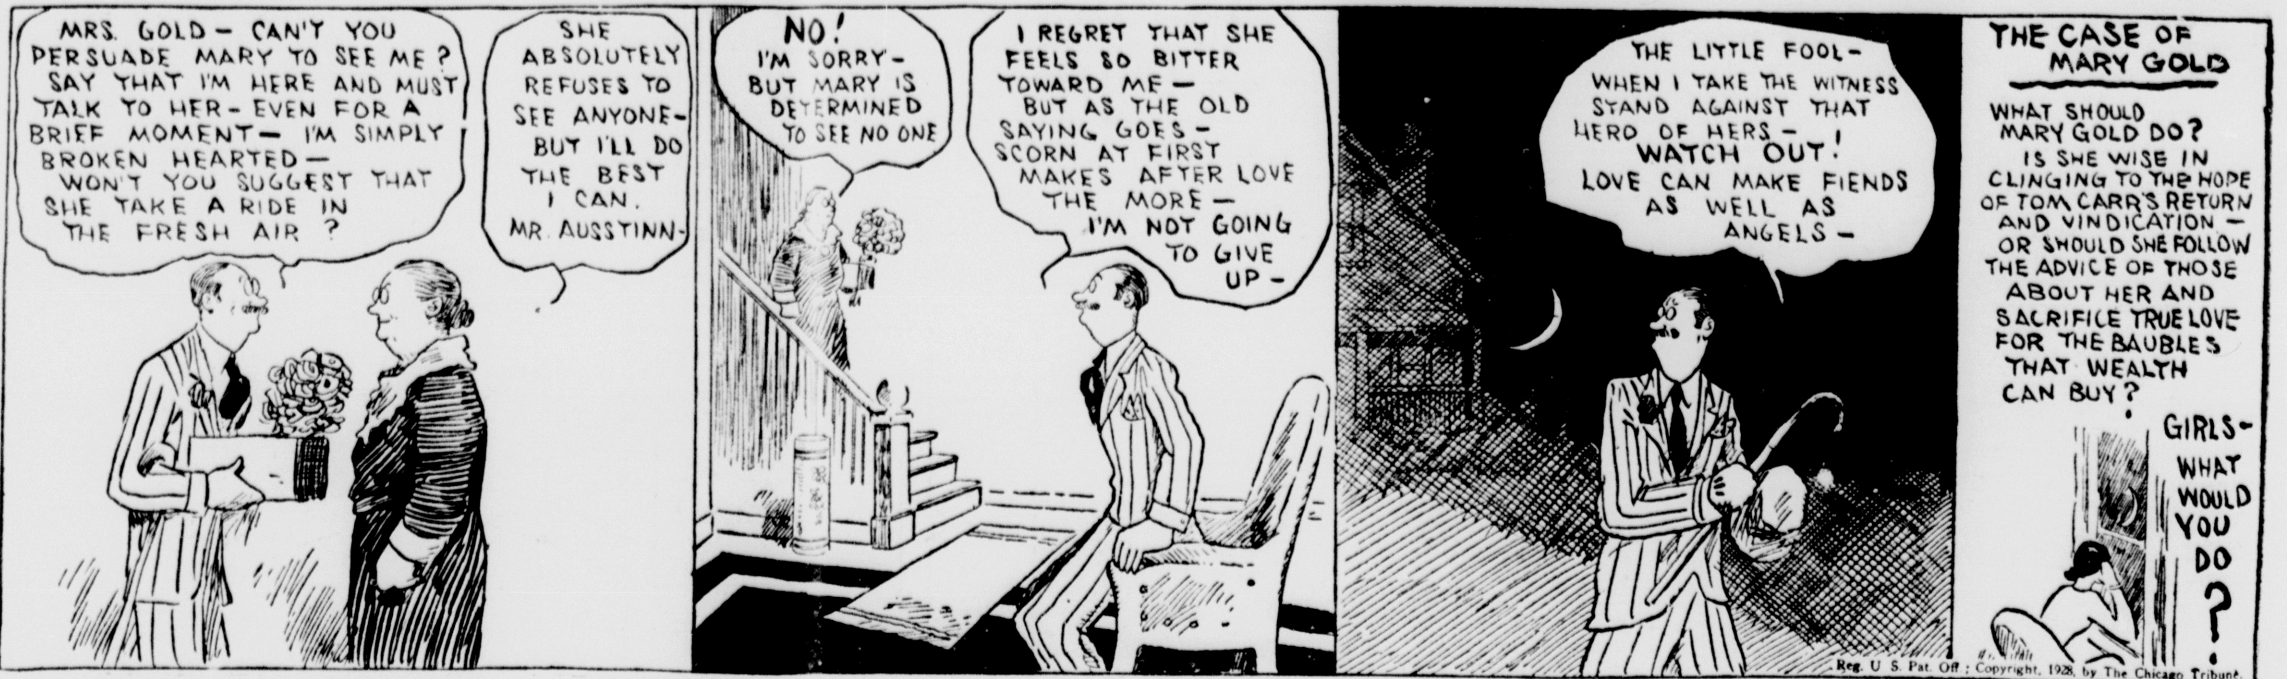

Her eyes explored Carlotta's face, and Carlotta was smiling!

"You didn't—you haven't—" Sally stammered.

Carlotta nodded. "I've got it. Brenda Lodge, Wisconsin, Maine. Adrian Martin's up there—on a hunting trip. No phones or anything—it's in the wilderness—we'll have to go ourselves. I think there's a morning train to Boston that connects—it will be all right."
